

The School Psychology Supervisor Toolkit: Consultation, Supervision, and Professional Growth

School psychology supervisors play a vital role in the professional development of school psychologists. They provide guidance, support, and feedback to school psychologists as they navigate the challenges of their work. The School Psychology Supervisor Toolkit provides a comprehensive set of resources to help school psychology supervisors fulfill their role effectively.

Consultation is a key component of school psychology supervision. It provides school psychologists with an opportunity to discuss their work with an experienced professional and to receive feedback and guidance. The School Psychology Supervisor Toolkit includes a variety of resources to help school psychology supervisors provide effective consultation, including:

- Consultation Models: The toolkit includes several different models of consultation, each with its own strengths and weaknesses. Supervisors can choose the model that best fits their needs and the needs of the school psychologists they supervise.
- Consultation Skills: The toolkit provides practical tips and techniques for effective consultation. Supervisors can learn how to establish rapport, build trust, and facilitate productive conversations.
- Consultation Case Studies: The toolkit includes case studies that illustrate the different types of consultation issues that school psychologists may encounter. Supervisors can use these case studies to practice their consultation skills and to develop strategies for addressing common problems.

Supervision is another important component of school psychology supervision. It provides school psychologists with an opportunity to receive feedback on their work and to develop their professional skills. The School Psychology Supervisor Toolkit includes a variety of resources to help school psychology supervisors provide effective supervision, including:
