The Raven* by Edgar Allan Poe

The Raven

Edgar Allan Poe

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary,
Over many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten lore—
When the nights were long and cold, and the days were short and old,
And the fire burned low and the wind blew cold,
And the snow fell fast and the ice grew bold,
And the raven sat upon the bust of Pallas just above my door,

Analysis

Poe's masterpiece, The Raven, is a haunting exploration of grief and madness. The speaker's obsession with the raven and its ominous refrain of "Nevermore" reflects his own despair and descent into a realm of shadows. The poem's vivid imagery and haunting rhythm evoke a sense of profound loss and longing that lingers long after the final stanza.

Lady Lazarus* by Sylvia Plath

My face a featureless,

Sausage.

Analysis

Plath's Lady Lazarus is a powerful and unflinching exploration of female rage and self-destruction. The speaker's grotesque imagery and defiant tone convey a sense of both vulnerability and resilience. The poem challenges traditional notions of beauty and identity, forcing readers to confront the dark and often unspoken realities of mental illness and societal oppression.

The Hollow Men* by T.S. Eliot

The Hollow Men

T.S. Eliot

We are the hollow men
We are the stuffed men
Leaning together
Headpiece filled with straw. Alas!
Our dried voices, when
We whisper together
Are quiet and meaningless
As wind in dry grass
Or rats' feet over broken glass
In our dry cellar

Analysis

Eliot's The Hollow Men is a chilling portrayal of modern society's spiritual emptiness and existential despair. The poem's imagery of emptiness and decay evokes a profound sense of alienation and disillusionment. Eliot's haunting language challenges readers to reflect on the meaning of life and to
